

*A*t the point where Lake Huron and the waters of the Upper Lakes are concentrated into the St. Clair River, Port Huron can readily lay claim to being the gateway to cruising the western inland seas. The early Indians certainly recognized the importance of this location. The French recognized its importance, and Fort St. Joseph was established in 1686 by Daniel Greysolon, Sieur Duluth. The trading value of Port Huron continued long after

